

MISS DOROTHY BOUCHER.

MISS EDITH AULTMAN.
Daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Dwight E. Aultman.

MRS. WILL R. KING.

MRS. THOMAS D. McMURRAY.

Plans for Boncompagni-Draper Wedding.

Prince Andrea Boncompagni of Rome, whose engagement to Miss Margaret Preston Draper of Washington was announced the first of the week, arrived here last evening and has taken quarters at the Albany, a bachelor apartment house opposite the Metropolitan Club. Later he went to the home of Mrs. William F. Draper, two blocks away, and dined with Mrs. Draper and her daughter.

The prince will remain in Washington until Tuesday, when he will probably follow Mrs. Draper and Miss Edith Blair to New York to remain for a week. In that time Miss Draper will order her regal bride's dress and arrange for other details of the wedding, which is to take place at noon Wednesday, October 25. Tomorrow Mrs. Draper will have a few distinguished guests to take luncheon with the prince at her home on Farragut Square, but there will not at any time be large or pretentious affairs for the couple.

The most important entertainments so far scheduled will be the dinner to be given by the Russian ambassador and Mrs. Hakmetoff, that on the evening of October 23 with Rear Admiral and Mrs. Richardson Clover and Miss Beatrice Clover as hosts, the dinner at the Italian embassy and the pre-nuptial dinner with Mrs. Draper as hostess.

Miss Draper has selected Miss Eudora Clover as maid of honor to attend her and Miss Edith Blair and Miss Minna Blair, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery Blair, and granddaughters of the late Gen. Draper, as bridesmaids.

Prince Boncompagni will have as best man, Mr. Giuseppe Brambilla, counselor of the Italian embassy, and there will be neither ushers nor masters of ceremonies.

The ceremony will be performed in the famous tapestried ballroom, with his eminence, Cardinal Gibbons, to officiate.

Miss Draper will be escorted to the altar by Mr. William King Richardson of Boston, her trustee.

Feminine interest in this and the old world centers in the bridal costume, and it will be a simple but regal affair, with splendid lace and filmy tulle as its predominating feature. It will afterward serve as a presentable robe for the bride, as it is to the black party that Prince Andrea Boncompagni belongs.

The most attractive touch to the entire toilet will be the great diamond butterfly with dewdrops of diamonds dripping from its outstretched wings, which Mrs. Draper has ordered especially made as her gift to her daughter. In addition to this, she will wear the priceless string of pearls which her father, the late Gen. William F.

Draper, presented to her when she made her debut abroad.

A diadem of diamonds will be the gift of Prince Boncompagni to his bride, but these jewels will not leave Rome just now on account of the laws of the country and the state of warfare which endangers their transportation.

Miss Draper's engagement ring is a diamond of great size and wondrous beauty, clear white and set in platinum. She wears no other rings, and has never shown much of a fondness for jewels, though those of her mother worn at the courts of Europe, outlived those of even the queen when Gen. Draper was American ambassador at Rome.

Mrs. Draper, Miss Draper and Prince Boncompagni will go to Baltimore on Monday to visit Cardinal Gibbons, who is a mutual friend of both families.

Freemire-Leckie.

White roses against a background of palms and ferns formed the setting for the marriage of Miss Anne K. Leckie and Mr. Leroy Freemire, formerly of New York, now of Washington, which took place last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the residence of the bride's mother, Mr. A. E. L. Leckie, 1335 Harvard street.

Rev. Dr. John Britton Clark, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, performed the ceremony in the presence of about sixty relatives and intimate friends of the couple.

Mrs. George F. Schutt played the wedding march.

The bride, who was escorted and later given in marriage by her brother, Mr. A. E. L. Leckie, wore a gown of ivory satin, over a foundation of silver lace and tulle, made with a court train of ivory panne velvet.

The bodice was elaborately trimmed with duchess point lace.

Her tulle veil was arranged in cap and scarf effect with rose point lace sprayed over with orange blossoms.

She wore a diamond and pearl sunburst, the gift of the bridegroom, and carried a bouquet of white roses and orchids.

Miss Elizabeth Jeffery Leckie was her sister's only attendant, and her gown was of white satin, draped with charmingly long, and she carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. Wendell Mansfield of New York was the best man, and Leckie Cox, nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer.

A reception and buffet supper followed. In the dining room quantities of pink roses were used to bank the mantels and garland the window alcove.

Mrs. John L. Roberts of Rock Springs, Wyo., sister of the bride, left last night for their wedding trip, the latter wearing a modish suit of brown English cloth trimmed with moleskin and a brown velvet hat embroidered in beads.

They will be at home in this city after November 1 at 1761 Willard street.

In the Cabinet.

The Secretary of State, Mr. Robert Lansing, is taking a rest cure at his home on 18th street, and is refraining from either official or social activity for a time.

The Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. McAdoo, who returned to Washington early last week and have opened their home here for the winter, have been joined by the younger members of the family, including Miss Sallie McAdoo.

The Secretary of War and Mrs. Newton D. Baker have as a guest Mrs. Newton Baker, sr., mother of the Secretary, who arrived yesterday for a visit of some length.

Mr. Thomas Watt Gregory, elder son of the Attorney General and Mrs. Gregory, left Washington yesterday for Princeton, where he is enrolled as a student.

The Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Redfield, accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Charles K. Drury, left Washington yesterday for Brooklyn, N. Y. The Secretary and Mrs. Redfield will be at their home in Brooklyn for a week, but Mrs. Drury and her brother, Mr. Humphrey F. Redfield, who is now in business in New York, will remain there for the winter.

Miss Sidney Burleson, daughter of the postmaster general and Mrs. Burleson, arrived here yesterday, accompanied by Miss Lucy Seelagoon, daughter of Judge Seelagoon of San Antonio, Tex. Miss Burleson, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Negley, at San Antonio for several weeks, will at once resume her studies at George Washington University, where she will graduate in June, and Miss Seelagoon will go to Bryn Mawr College.

Miss Lucy Burleson is in San Antonio and will not return to Washington until the end of the month.

The Diplomatic Corps.

The first formal entertainment to be given at the Russian embassy by the ambassador and Mme. Bakmeteff, who arrived here this evening, will be their dinner for Miss Margaret Draper and Prince Andrea Boncompagni of Rome, whose engagement was announced early last week. Adding renewed interest to the staff of the Russian ambassador is the new counselor, Mr. Onou and Mme. Onou, who arrived in this country several weeks ago and went direct to Newport.

The recently appointed ambassador of Japan, Mr. Akamatsu, will arrive in Washington tomorrow, unaccompanied, and will shortly open the embassy on Franklin Square, which has been the home of several of his predecessors.

The Spanish ambassador will close the summer embassy at Newport October 18, and he and Senora de Riano will go to New York for a short visit before coming to Washington.

The President of China, Li Yuan-Hung, has refused by cable to accept the resignation of Dr. Vi Kyun Vei-lington Koo, tendered to him a few days ago, and asks that the minister reconsider the matter and remain as China's representative in this country. It is probable that Dr. Koo will not leave America, as his services are deemed indispensable. The publication of the news of the minister's resignation was wholly unexpected and, in fact, was an accident, as it was not intended for publication until acted upon by the Chinese government.

Wednesday there will arrive in Washington Commander Emmanuel Aubin Blampre, who has been attached to the French embassy here as representative of the French navy to succeed Commander Antonin Martin, who is leaving for active duty in France. Mr. de Blampre was quite popular here in his residence six years ago, and he and his wife will bring added attractiveness to the corps. Mme. de Blampre is a splendid musician, with a wonderful singing voice, and will join the musicians of the corps, who include Sir Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice, a pianist of much more than usual ability, and others.

Senior Don Manuel Castro Quesada, minister of Costa Rica, has returned to the legation for the winter.

Senior Don Roberto Ancizar, the retiring first secretary of the Colombian legation, is preparing to sail in the near future to assume his new duties as minister of Colombia to Argentina.

Random Notes.

Mrs. Albert F. Fessenden sailed from New York Wednesday, October 4, for Cristobal, Canal Zone, where she will join her husband, who has been in the zone for several months.

Mrs. John W. Roth of Woodbridge, D. C., has returned from a three-week visit to Newark and Columbus, Ohio.

Mrs. Appleton and her daughter, Miss Caroline Dames Appleton, who have been at the Hotel La Fayette during the past few months, have removed to their former apartment in the Portland for the season.

Dr. J. M. Huddleston is on vacation, touring Maryland. He will return some time next week.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Colby are making an extended stay in Atlantic City.

Miss Edna Wilm of Milwaukee has been visiting Mrs. Fay Brennan at the Harrington Hotel.

Dr. Ida J. Heiberger and the Misses Heiberger have returned to the city after spending the summer in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Hattie Cross will reside at the Cairo the coming winter.

Mr. Fred F. Mann of Boston is spending a few days in Washington.

Judith and Mrs. William F. Norris and Miss Ethel Norris have returned to their apartment at 1622 S street, after spending the summer in New England.

Miss Sidney Hood of Philadelphia has arrived to spend the winter as the guest of Mrs. J. H. Darling.

Visitors From Texas.

Miss Ethel M. Dykes, formerly of Brookland, has returned to Washington from a year's sojourn in Texas. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Emmett Anderson, who will be the guest of her mother, Mrs. Anna V. Dykes, until the latter part of October, when she will return to her home in Austin, Tex.

Mr. Rufus C. Thaxton of Austin, Tex., was the week-end guest of Mrs. Anna V. Dykes and Mrs. William F. Davidson at their home on Georgia avenue while en route from Canada and New York to Austin.

THIS month is little more than a first draft of the preface to the social season of the winter, but from it hostesses will be able to determine pretty well what the coming months hold in the way of favorite diversions for the smart set and devotees of society.

When and how debutantes are to be presented, what form of after-dinner entertainment is to be brought into vogue, what new feature may be introduced at dances, what form of enlightening entertainment is to fill the morning hours and other important details are all matters that will be determined. Already a number of the wealthy widows who form an elite circle have engaged the artists, dancers and musicians who are to entertain the guests after their most important dinner parties. One who has felt the depressing influence of war times until she can stand it no longer is trying to engage the services of a jester—one of the most famous wits of the day—to bring on a laugh to aid digestion. Of course, this dignified funmaker will not wear cap and bells, as did the court jesters of old, but if his engagements will admit of his coming to the capital he will be the novel sensation of the winter.

Around the Army-Navy game, November 25, cluster the interests of the season's crop of debutantes. It is the tonic for each which precedes their coming out, and brave, indeed, would be the maiden who ventured to formally cross the threshold of a stately drawing room before she witnessed the great tug between the coming sailors and soldiers of the two branches of the service.

So far as announced, Miss Anne Hopkins, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Neville Monroe Hopkins, will be the first to drop a courtesy to society, being introduced at a hospitable old-fashioned tea, probably followed by quite new-fashioned dancing, on the afternoon of Thanksgiving day, Thursday, November 26. The afternoon or evening of Thanksgiving has always been the coveted time for introduction, and has generally been chosen by a local hostess, so it is to be meted that Miss Hopkins, the representative of a family who for many years has been prominent in the resident set, should usurp it.

Miss Emily Kutz will be presented December 5 at an afternoon reception, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Johnson have chosen the morning of the same date for presenting their daughter, Miss Nellie Johnson, on December 6. Other mothers are arranging to either present their daughters at small balls or at afternoon teas with supper parties and dances following.

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Margaret Preston Draper—the Preston stands for much in history, and Prince Andrea Boncompagni of Rome sent a thrill throughout society of this and the old world, as the country it means to forfeit to Europe the citizenship of another beautiful American woman, and to that country a wealth of perfect American womanhood. The wedding, October 25, would do credit to any court circle of the old world, an atmosphere, in fact, in which the lovers first met in their little boy and girl days. Cardinal Gibbons, who has so often been the guest of Mrs. Draper in this and other cities, will officiate, and the ambassador of Italy, Count Maechi di Cellere, and the members of the staff and other dignitaries, will be present.

It is to November that society folk look for the greater number of autumn weddings in and out of Washington, and November 8 seems to be a particularly popular day, as it has been chosen by Miss Beatrice Dulin for her House of Representatives wedding, and by Miss Edith Blair for her wedding to Mr. Gray Dawson, which took place at 7:30 o'clock, Wednesday, October 23, at the home of Mrs. Draper. Mr. Gray Dawson and Mr. Thomas H. Dawson, brothers of the bride, performed the ceremony, assisted by Mr. Charles Grayson Dulin, whose marriage to Miss Beatrice Dulin, daughter of Mrs. Charles Grayson Dulin, was celebrated on that day on November 8, was the maid of honor.

She wore an exquisite gown of lavender tulle, embroidered in silver. The bodice was cut decollete and was of cloth of silver.

She wore a picture hat of silver lace and silver silp.

Her bouquet was of pink roses. The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. She was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Mr. Samuel Mitman of South Bethlehem, Pa.

Her gown was of white satin charmeuse, draped with silver lace. The tulle, her long court train of charmeuse fell from the shoulders and her full veil was becomingly arranged with a tiny spray of orange blossoms.

A shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley was carried.

A reception followed from 3 to 10 at the residence of the bride's parents, which was elaborately decorated with pink roses and palms for the occasion. Receiving with the bride and bride-

Mitman-Dawson.

Autumn leaves made a background for palms, ferns and white roses which banded the chancel at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church for the wedding last evening of Miss Doris Rodgers Dawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hambleton Dawson, and Mr. Carl W. Mitman of South Bethlehem, Pa., which took place at 7:30 o'clock, Wednesday, October 23, at the home of Mrs. Draper. Mr. Gray Dawson and Mr. Thomas H. Dawson, brothers of the bride, performed the ceremony, assisted by Mr. Charles Grayson Dulin, whose marriage to Miss Beatrice Dulin, daughter of Mrs. Charles Grayson Dulin, was celebrated on that day on November 8, was the maid of honor.
